

IN CALIFORNIA

WORKERS HAVE RIGHTS

Your rights as a worker are enforced and protected by the California Department of Industrial Relations, Division of Labor Standards Enforcement (DLSE). DLSE investigates and resolves complaints about discrimination, wages, child labor, hours of work and working conditions.

Whether you are a documented or undocumented worker in California, you have rights protected by state laws that guarantee payment of wages for work performed. It is the policy of the California Department of Industrial Relations not to question your immigration status.

Here are some rights that protect your working conditions:

The right to be paid the minimum wage

You are to be paid no less than minimum wage of $6.75 per hour, whether your pay is measured by time, piece rate, commission or other method of calculation. With few exceptions, all wages earned are due and payable at a minimum of twice during each calendar month on your regular payday.

The right to a net 10-minute rest period

You must be permitted to take a net 10-minute rest period for every four hours worked or major fraction thereof which to the extent possible shall be in the middle of each work period. If your employer does not provide you a rest period, your employer must pay you one additional hour of pay at your regular rate of pay for each workday the rest period is not allowed.

3

The right to a meal period

You are entitled to a meal period of at least 30 minutes if you work more than five hours. You must be relieved of all work duty during your meal period. Each workday you are not provided a meal period, or you perform work during your meal period, your employer must pay you one additional hour of pay at your regular rate of pay. You have the right to a clean meal and rest area.

4

The right to file a workers' compensation claim if you are injured on the job

For fact sheets, information and assistance in filing a workers' compensation claim, call toll free: 1-800-736-7401 or visit www.dir.ca.gov and click on the Division of Workers' Compensation. You have the right to process your workers' compensation claim and are protected from termination.

The right to be provided all of the tools necessary to do your work

Tools should be provided and maintained by the employer at no cost to you. However, if you earn two times the minimum wage, you may be asked to provide and maintain the hand tools required for that trade or craft.

6

The right to a pay stub or wage statement every time you are paid your wages

Whether you are paid by check, in cash or otherwise, you must receive a pay stub or a written wage statement showing among other things: your employer's name, address and telephone number; your name and social security number; gross wages earned; all deductions; and the dates for the period you are being paid. If you are paid by piece rate, the wage statement must show the number of piece rate units earned and the piece rate per unit. You have the right to a regularly scheduled payday and your employer must comply with the established payday.

The right to be paid every time your employer asks you to report to work

Each workday you are required to report for work and you do report, but you are not put to work or you are furnished less than half of your usual or scheduled day’s work, you shall be paid for half the usual or scheduled day’s work, but in no event for less than two hours nor more than four hours, at your regular rate of pay.

8

The right to be paid all wages by your employer the same day you are terminated or within 72 hours of a voluntary quit

If you are terminated, your employer must pay you all wages due immediately. If you voluntarily quit without giving 72 hours prior notice, your employer must pay you within 72 hours. If your employer fails to pay you, they may be penalized and required to pay you the equivalent of one-day’s wages for each day delayed in paying your wages (up to a maximum of 30 days).

The right to file a wage claim, a discrimination complaint or speak to the California labor commissioner regardless of your immigration status and without retaliation from your employer

You have the right (free from retaliation) to process your wage claim, attend hearings to recover unpaid wages and investigate retaliation complaints. You may discuss labor issues with the DLSE and/or your employer under protection of the law and your employer may not discharge, demote, suspend or discipline you in any manner for this reason. You may file a complaint with the labor commissioner for reinstatement, full back pay, and any other appropriate remedy if you feel you were discharged because you engaged in such activity.

Wage claim tip: Keep your own time records. Write down every day the time you begin work, when you end work, the time you take meal and rest breaks and the total hours you work. Write down your piece rate, or if you are paid by the hour, record your hourly rate.
